19. Diary Entry about 'The Friendly Mongoose':

Dear Diary,

What a tragic and heartbreaking day it has been. A terrible misunderstanding has befallen our kind neighbors. The farmer's wife and I had just returned from the well when we heard a cry from their house. Rushing in, we saw a shocking scene: the faithful mongoose lay dead on the floor, its mouth stained with blood. In a fit of fear and assuming the worst, the poor mother had struck the poor creature, thinking it had harmed her baby.

The real story, we soon discovered, was one of incredible loyalty. The blood was from a great snake that the mongoose had fought and killed to protect the sleeping infant. The baby was safe and sound, saved by the very pet its mother had mistakenly killed. The family is now consumed by grief and guilt. It is a harsh lesson that our fears can sometimes blind us to the truth. I will never forget the sight of that loyal little creature, who gave its life for its family.

Section D: Composition

20. A) Letter to a Friend about Dussehra Holidays

[Your Address] [Date]

Dear [Friend's Name],

I hope this letter finds you in the best of health and spirits. I had a wonderful time during the Dussehra holidays, and I wanted to share my experiences with you.

The festivities began with my family cleaning and decorating our house. We bought new clothes and visited the local temple. The main celebration was visiting the fairgrounds to see the magnificent Ravana effigies. I enjoyed the Ferris wheel and eating lots of sweets like jalebi and candy floss with my cousins.

On Vijayadashami, we gathered to watch the Ram Lila play, which depicted the victory of Lord Rama over Ravana. In the evening, we watched the giant effigies of Ravana, Kumbhakarna, and Meghnad go up in flames amidst loud cheers and fireworks. It was a spectacular sight! The festival reminded me of the victory of good over evil. I missed you and thought about how much more fun it would have been if you were here. I can't wait to hear all about how you spent your holidays.

Please write back soon!

Your loving friend, [Your Name]

20. B) Paragraph on Building a House

Building a house is a systematic process that requires careful planning and various materials. First, the land is cleared and levelled. Then, architects and engineers create a design, and a deep foundation is dug and filled with concrete to support the structure. The main construction involves building walls with bricks, bonded together with cement and sand mortar. A skeleton of steel rods is placed and filled with concrete to create strong columns and beams. Once the walls are up, a roof made of concrete, tiles, or sheets is added. Openings for doors and windows are left and fitted later. Finally, the walls are plastered and painted, and electrical wiring and plumbing pipes are installed. The main materials needed include cement, sand, bricks, steel, stone chips, wood, glass, and pipes. It is a long process that results in a safe and secure home.
